Amend §3.15--inactive wells and return to production

Amend §3.15--inactive wells and return to production

After reviewing the proposed rule changes, Sheridan Production Company supports the Commission's proposal to amend the qualifications for inactive wells. Given the current state of the industry, many wells are uneconomic to produce at lower pricing, however, upon an increase in the market, these wells will once again become economic projects to restore production. If these wells are required to be plugged due to the current definitions of inactivity, then valuable reserves could be lost as a result.
