Amend §3.28--deliverability testing requirements for gas wells

Amend §3.28--deliverability testing requirements for gas wells

The proposed rule changes by the Commission for gas deliverability are supported by Sheridan Production Company. Reducing the requirement to continually file G-10s will not only help the Commission deal with less paperwork, it will reduce the burden on the operator to provide these semi-annual well tests. Only requiring new G-10s when a well is recompleted, changing classification, etc. makes the most sense, seeing that the operator would want to have a new well test on the well in order to establish the new production levels, which will also directly impact the production allowable. This should benefit the Commission and operator alike.
