

RAILROAD COMMISSION OF TEXAS

NOTICE TO OPERATORS

Applications for Critical Load Serving Electric Generation and Cogeneration Being Accepted

As the Railroad Commission of Texas continues to implement legislation passed during the 87th Regular Session of the Texas Legislature, the agency anticipates issuing additional guidance regarding critical designations for oil and gas operators later this year.

The Commission has been informed that Applications for Critical Load Serving Electric Generation and Cogeneration are currently being accepted. The Commission requests that oil and gas operators under the Commission's jurisdiction review the form and apply for critical load designation as appropriate. The Commission does not have jurisdiction over electricity generation. Questions related to this application form or critical load designation should be directed to your electric utility provider.

The Application for Critical Load Serving Electric Generation and Cogeneration form is available on the Electric Reliability Council of Texas (ERCOT) website at http://www.ercot.com/content/wcm/key_documents_lists/174326/Final_-_App_for_gas_pipeline_load_v020320.pdf.
