Comments concerning draft rulemakings

I firmly believe that this proposed rule change should not be approved. The oil and gas industry is already being hammered by an anti American, anti fossil fuel administration that is hell bent on destroying American energy production. The Texas RRC should be making it easier for oil and gas production in Texas, not harder by piling on more regulations. We have gotten along just fine with the current regulations. We do not need to be destroying even more American energy independence when the world is on the brink of multiple wars and the U.S. is hovering on recession. The left wing, big government lunacy has to stop north of the Red River.
